c2: worked with GHI on this project, which included close collaboration with the client, Idox. Idox is a supplier of software solutions and services to the UK public sector, and were looking to move into a better quality office space, with more modern security and facilities. They chose the Grosvenor Building on Gordon Street, and c2: were tasked with creating a vibrant, inspiring yet on brand office environment. Whilst it was important that the scheme and overall effect of the space be "on-brand" the client also requested that it should not "envelope" their staff in the corporate brand. c2: have created a sophisticated, colourful and welcoming office for Idox, with plenty of collaboration areas.
